Dear Mr. Arman Tatoyan,

I am writing to address the issue of recent unrest between Armenia and Azerbaijan. I am strongly concerned about the wellbeing of children caught in the middle of an adult crisis. I am convinced that it is the human rights institutions that should and can bring ease in such difficult times. As a member of the international children's rights community I feel obliged to extend to you an offer of support in any form you might feel suitable. Please, feel free to let me know if you would consider my visit or any other steps helpful.

Kind regards,
